“ I never had the chance to meet this young man, but I have developed a bond with his mother this last year. Losing someone is hard, but losing your child, no matter what age, is one of the hardest things a parent will ever go through. Deb, my heartfelt prayers go out to you and your family during this time. May God ease your pain and bring you peace and comfort. I love you.

“ One of my best memories I have of Cory was when we were going out he took me to six flags. He made me try the rides that scared me. I loved them and it made me try things I was to scared to try. He also tought me how to rase with my standard car. Made me love rasing even more. We had fun together and laughed alot. He was one of my best boyfriend but we just didn't work out. We were friends for a while until some of his girlfriends came along. Just the way it goes. When I found out he had passed it was like I had been punched in the gut. We didn't talk any more but I still cared about him. I will miss him but he's in no pain and I am thankful for that. He's with God now.
