*Goodbye my friend, words fail me now to find something profound enough to say. So I'll just say I always loved you and always will. I just found out about your death today, needless to say I was shocked. Watching this video of you up there I remember when we Heard that song (same mistakes) for The first time we was watching ps I love you. Will it turned into our Anthem. And Though I had already gotten emotional that was when I really broke down. There it was a small a trip back to when we was close. And couldn't see an end to the fun . What a joy it will be to see you again when this test is over. Until then you will live in my heart and memories ❤️ your friend forever.
