“ As I am reminded today to think of something funny about my mom, there was a time when we were having the minister from Navarino Church after supper. Mom was good at making pies. It was something her mother taught her as a child. Well, this particular time, there was a mistake that accured. Somehow, the sugar for the pie was substituted with salt so the pie was not eatable. But come to find out, the sugar bowl also had salt in it also. Thank God this error was caught before the minister arrived. Years later, a friend of the family had thought that it was me that had swapped out the salt and sugar. I swear it was not me. Back in those days, sometimes salt and sugar came in bags that were similar.

“ I remember making strawberry and grape jam, cinnamon rolls, and putting the chickens in the freezer and the pin feathers over the gas stove. I do have her recipe still for cinnamon rolls. I also remember all of us eating dinner every night at your house while we were rebuilding the house for about 4 months or so

I remember Cindy had this photo made in to a puzzle. We worked on putting it together last Memorial Day weekend. Loretta took it home to hang on Mom's wall.
